Record Broken At UTJC As Enrollment Hits 650

Gene H. Stanford

Expecting To Surpass
Biddle McKay Barrik

Gene H. Stanford, as director of the Junior College, expects to break the record of 600 set by Biddle McKay Barrik, who was in charge of the college when it was founded in 1928. Mr. Stanford, who has been in charge of the college since 1938, expects to break the record by the end of the year.

He is currently in charge of the college and expects to break the record by the end of the year.

David C. Allen

David C. Allen, history, English, and social studies instructor, is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, having received a B.A. degree from that institution in 1931. He received his masters from the same school in 1934.

He has taught at the college for the past nine years. He is married and has three children. He is a member of the Junior College Teachers' Association.

Joseph L. Rosson

Joseph L. Rosson, spring and summer instructor in mathematics and engineering, is one of the few navy veterans teaching this fall at the college. He commanded a landing craft as lieutenant at such notable hot spots as the Sulphur Springs and Normandy landings. He also saw service in the Pacific. He is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, having received his degree in 1941.

J. Paul Phillips

Paul Hug

Paul Hug, director of athletics and head coach, is a former All-Southern end at the University of Tennessee, playing from 1928 to 1930. He has been with the college four years, broken, however, by four years in the army as a physical training officer.

Before coming to the Junior College, he coached football at Southwestern in Memphis and in several Tennessee high schools. Coach Hug may also teach chemistry.

Mrs. Lucille Reed

Mrs. Lucille Reed, "Mother" to the 50 or so girls who live at Reed Hall, looks on her work as a series of problems in "the labor of love." She says, "I always enjoy working with so many girls from so many different places. It is really a treat to study their personalities and watch them grow here."

Mrs. Reed should be an old hand at the game of "mothering" young ladies by now. She has been here at the college for 10 years and before that had the same job at Cumberland University at Lebanon.

Miss Helen Hawkins

Miss Helen Hawkins, home economics instructor, completed her degree at the University of Tennessee in 1931. She has been with the college for four years. She is a member of the Junior College Teachers' Association.

George Horton

George Horton, biology department head, knew the college way back when. As a matter of fact, he was here before it was. He was a student at Hall-Moody College in his freshman year and next year Hall-Moody became the University of Tennessee Junior College. After that, his aspirations began to grow and he went on to Knoxville to the University of Tennessee, where he received his B.S. and then went to North Carolina State for his Ph.D. in biology.

He has been with the college for four years. He is a member of the Junior College Teachers' Association.

Olsen Rasmussen

Paul Wakefield

Paul Wakefield, Cornersville, is one of the new teachers in the English department. Wakefield is a purple heart veteran of the marine corps who saw action on a series of Pacific hotspots, notably Iwo Jima with the Fourth Marine Division. He was wounded during the Iwo Jima fighting.

A graduate of Berry College, Mt. Berry, Ga., and Loyola University, New Orleans, he also holds a M.A. from Peabody College in Nashville. He has had high school teaching experience and once taught at Berry College. His old alma mater, Mr. Wakefield is a first rate pianist and organist.

THE VOLETTE

Three Day Thanksgiving
Holiday This Year

New Student Reception

It was the first of the new students of the University of Tennessee at Martin. The reception was held at the regular meeting of the faculty and the new students were introduced to the faculty and the students of the college.

School At Martin Gets High Tribute

The school at Martin, Tennessee, has received a high tribute from the students of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. The students of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville have been visiting the school at Martin and have been very impressed with the quality of the education and the facilities of the school. The students of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville have been visiting the school at Martin and have been very impressed with the quality of the education and the facilities of the school.

J. E. McMahan

John E. McMahan, head of the agriculture department, is more than just a school teacher. His personal and earnest efforts have induced many a local farmer to improve his methods of farming to his own advantage. He has been particularly successful in getting farmers in this area to build up their land by scientific methods.

He earned his B. S. in Ag. at Mississippi State and later added a master's degree from the University of Missouri. Before coming to Martin, he taught in Pearl River College in Mississippi. He has been here for the past many years, head of department for the entire period.

Sam M. Stubblerfield

Sam Madsen Stubblerfield, agriculture department, is another graduate of the University of Tennessee, having departed that land of knowledge in 1937, clutching a sheepskin that proclaimed to all that he held the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture.

Only 27 years old, he stands among his experienced staff with the AAA and five years work with the extension service of the University of Tennessee. Incidentally, he was the president of his senior class at Knoxville. He is married, but has no children.

J. O. Jones

J. O. Jones, agricultural department instructor, is still one more graduate of the University of Tennessee. He graduated from the Knoxville College in 1912, just in time to join the air corps as a pilot instructor.

During his army career he was assigned to 13 different bases, all in the United States, except for the one in Arkansas, where he spent most of his military career. He was separated from the service in November, 1945.

Edward Bluff

Edward Bluff, of the engineering and mathematics department, is another former student of the University of Tennessee who later returned as an instructor. He arrived this spring after spending four years in the air transport command in Europe.

His degree in agricultural engineering came from the University of Tennessee. He is single.

Mrs. Alice E. Davies

Mrs. Alice E. Davies, English department, for the past 10 years has been correcting the themes of UTJC students and acting as a part time teacher of English. Beginning last year, however, she went on a full duty status in the English department.

She is a veteran of 27 years of high school and junior college teaching and probably is the senior teacher at the college. She is a graduate of Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville.

James C. Henson

James C. Henson will act as assistant to Coach Paul Hug in addition teach chemistry. He is a graduate of Mississippi State College where he received a B.S. in 1936. He played four years of football at Mississippi State.

After graduation he taught in various high schools and junior colleges and was athletic director and head of the natural science department at Ole Miss. In addition to his athletic and teaching talents, Henson is active in the glee club and choir activity. He is married.

Horace B. Smith

Horace B. Smith, English and history instructor, has been at the college since last March, so is no notice to the affairs of the school.

His first degree, a B.A., came from the University of Tennessee in 1928, and he added a M.A. in 1938. His teaching experience numbers several years as superintendent of the Bruceton public school system. He was also in the merchantile business for several years. He is married and the father of two daughters, aged three and five.

Elizabeth Overcash

Elizabeth Overcash, another biology teacher, has lived on a college campus all her life. Her father is a professor of science at Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia, and the family lived right on the campus.

When Elizabeth grew up, however, she went to Farmville State Teachers College for her B.S. and later to William and Mary College in Williamsburg for her masters. In college she was a member of three national honor societies: Alpha Phi Sigma, Kappa Delta and Pi Gamma Mu.

William C. Taylor

William C. Taylor, math instructor, is an ordained clergyman of the Episcopal church, having graduated from the Philadelphia Divinity School in 1935. He holds a B.Th. from that school and served in the ministry until 1942.

During the war he was an instructor at Keesler Field, Miss., teaching aircraft electrical systems to USAAF students. He has in addition to his B.Th., a B.S. from Penn. State. Thirty-eight years old, he is married and father of two sons aged five and eight.

Mary Vick Burney

Mary Vick Burney, head librarian, is the senior faculty member, having been here since the college's beginning in 1927. She is a graduate of Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., and the University of Wisconsin.

A native of Clarksville, she can trace her ancestry in Tennessee back in 1805. Genealogy incidentally is one of her pet hobbies; gardening is the other. She is president of the Junior College division of the American Library Association and has long been active in West Tennessee library development.

Cora Paul Bomar

Cora Paul Bomar, Trezevant, is a native of this area, having lived in Trezevant all her life, except for excursions to Knoxville, where she earned a B. S. degree in education and later to Nashville to get a B.S. in library science from Peabody College there. In college she was a member of Pi Gamma Mu, national honor fraternity.

She is well prepared for her job as assistant librarian after working in the same position in Milan High School and schools in

J. Blankenship Fleenor

J. Blankenship Fleenor is the newest addition to the department of social science. In more than a dozen years of teaching he has worked in nearly every phase of the teaching profession.

He says, "I have taught in one room schools, been principal, a city superintendent of schools, taught in two colleges, spent six years as superintendent of the public schools of Cincinnati, Ohio, and five years as head of the department of social science in Crichton High School in West Virginia."

Gordon N. Murray

Gordon N. Murray, slated for the biology department, is a graduate of Northwestern University, where he earned a B.S. He has long been active in YMCA and church work in addition to his teaching, which has chiefly been in high schools. He served overseas in Hawaii as an administrative captain with the army medical corps. Murray is 29 and married.

Lester Jackson

Lester Jackson is a Tennessee native, hailing from Old Hickory. He took his B.S. from State Teachers College at Murfreesboro and later taught science at Old Hickory High School.

Currently he is working on his masters degree at Peabody College in Nashville. At UTJO here he will teach chemistry.

Robert B. Hallmark

Robert B. Hallmark is another instructor fresh out of the army. He served in the army medical corps as an administrative officer for four years and was discharged as a captain.

With a B.S. from Oklahoma A. & M. and a M.S. from the University of Kentucky he fits in naturally with the department of animal husbandry.

Mrs. Mary Lynn Smith

Mrs. Mary Lynn Travis should be right at home here in Martin. Her father, W. W. Travis, is a local business man and Mary Lynn was raised in Martin. She also was a former student here at the Junior College before going off to the University of Tennessee to get her B.A. She will teach physics this fall.

Earl M. Knepp

Earl Martin Knepp, agriculture department instructor and veteran of 10 years with UTJC is one of the "old-timers" of the college. He has done much to better West Tennessee farming methods thru the hundreds of students who have learned the fundamentals of good farming in his classes.

A graduate of Penn State University, he received a B.S. degree in agricultural engineering. He also holds a masters from Purdue University in the same subject. He is married and the father of two children. The oldest of the two, Dorothy, is beginning her freshman year here at UTJC.

Mrs. Doris Milton

Mrs. Doris Milton, home economics department, is beginning her third year at the college. From Fort Smith, Ark., originally, she received her B.S. from the University of Arkansas in 1929 and later earned a M.S. degree from the University of Tennessee. Before coming to the Junior College she worked three and one-half years as a home demonstration agent and then for the Farm Security Administration in Arkansas.

She, like all the home ec teachers, is active in club work. In addition to serving as the president of the Faculty Women's Club she is a member of the Fortnightly Club and also sings in the Methodist church choir. Her two daughters, Shirley Ann and Carolyn, 12 and 14 respectively, are students in Martin elementary and high schools.

Norman Campbell

Norman Campbell head of the physics and chemistry departments, is a graduate of the University of Tennessee holding both B.S. and M.S. degrees from that institution. He has been teaching at the college here for four years prior to which he taught at Bethel College, McKenzie, for two years and in Sharon and Palmersville high schools for three years.

Handsome, boyish, Campbell is the co-eds ideal of the perfect, but he is already happily married and the father of two children, the oldest seven. His wife is the former Ruby Robinson of Sharon.

John H. Bailey

John H. Bailey, Morehead State Teachers College graduate, with a B.A. in biology and also a master's degree from the University of Kentucky, is the newest addition to the biology department under George Horton. He has had 14 years teaching experience, most of it in Kentucky high schools. However, he once taught in Ashland Junior College, Ashland, Ky., and was affiliated with the famous Bert Schools of Georgia.

He is married and has one child. He and Mrs. Bailey, like so many other teachers, find that housing is the greatest problem to overcome here in Martin, and that once they are settled the place will be ideal.

Ed Chenette is a former national clarinet champion and has played with such well known musical organizations as the Tampa, Fla., civic opera orchestra in his extra curricular activities in the past few years. At Martin he will teach English and direct the college orchestra.

The 30-year old Chenette has had teaching experience in several high schools. He earned his B.S. at North Illinois State Teachers College and later took a masters degree at the University of Iowa.

Lavella Mae Corley

Miss Lavella Mae Corley, part time teacher of geography and other subjects at the college, is a native of Gibson county. Born near Dyer, she attended the Junior College as a student and then went on to the George Peabody College at Nashville for her B.S. degree. She has been teaching at the college for about three years, alternating between it and the high school.

Frances S. McGinness

Frances Sue McGinness, Carthage, is the new physical education teacher for girls. Pretty and unmarried, she taught last year at Byars-Hall High School in Covington and has had a lot of experience in Girl Scout work and similar activities.

She received her B.S. in education at the University of Tennessee after being awarded a teaching fellowship from David Lipscomb College. She attended David Lipscomb on an honorary scholarship awarded for superior work in high school.

Edwin C. Osburn

Edwin C. Osburn, Harahan, is in charge of the university's regional library which serves 10 West Tennessee counties. He is a graduate of Howard College, Birmingham and in addition to the B.A. degree earned there, he holds a master's degree in theology from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.; a Bachelor of Divinity from Croza Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa.; a B.A. in Library Science from the University of North Carolina.

Mrs. R. A. Freeman

Mrs. R. A. Freeman, beginning her third year as matron of Freeman Hall, also regards her work as an assignment in character building. "Having had no children of my own, working with these young women gives me an especial pleasure," she says.

Mrs. Freeman finds that looking after her more than 50 charges just as much a problem as keeping a house spick and span, which incidentally was her job before she came to college. Besides her housework, she also found time for a lot of church activities that must have been a lot of help to

Raymond A. Paul

Raymond A. Paul, only mechanical drawing teacher added to the faculty this year, lists as his experience, teaching a photography course at Ohio State University and course in painting and illustration at Nebraska University.

He holds a B.S. from Miami University of Ohio and also attended Pratt Institute for three and one-half years. He once worked for the Associated Press in New York as a staff artist and photographer. Thirty-four years old, he is married and has two children.

Miss Nina Swindler

Miss Nina Swindler, foods and nutrition instructor, holds a B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Tennessee. She is beginning her 11th year on the college campus. From Newbern, she is a lifelong resident of West Tennessee.

On the campus she is the sponsor of the Student Christian Activities Association and the Home Ec Club. On her own time she carries on her fondness for club activities with an active membership in the local chapter of the Fortnightly Club.

Newton H. Barnette

Newton H. Barnette is the new head of the engineering department. He is 28, married, father of two children and comes to Martin from Virginia Polytechnic where he has been doing graduate work and part time teaching.

He received his B. S. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic and during the war worked with the army on airport, seawall and levee construction. He also worked with the far-famed engineer board at Fort Belvoir, Va., where such top secret devices as the sniperscope and snooperscope were first developed.

Olin Mintzer III

Olin Mintzer III, who will teach engineering, holds a B.S. from the University of Tennessee, which he received in 1942. He gained a lot of practical experience as an engineer officer with the army in the European theater of operations, where he helped build "an awful lot of airports."

He is married and has a daughter. His hobbies are model trains and Scout work. Before entering the army, the 30-year old engineer worked with the TVA as a draftsman and surveyor.

Josephine Sullivan

Josephine Sullivan, assistant librarian, comes from hilly Hickman, Ky., hard by the muddy Mississippi where she attended Hickman High School. After graduating from high school she attended Murray State Teachers College for three years and then went to Peabody College where she received a B.S. in library science.

She has taught in Hickman High School and also in Huntsville High School, Huntsville, Ala. She will be in charge of cataloging the local library.

Horace C. Smith, Jr.

Horace C. Smith, Jr., addition to the agriculture department, is a graduate of the University of Tennessee where he received

In March of 1942 he entered the army as a lieutenant and was assigned to settle claims resulting from the Tennessee maneuvers that year. Since his discharge in March of this year he has been working for the Tennessee experiment station surveying soils in Franklin county.

John D. Atkins, Jr.

John D. Atkins, Jr., is a former student of the college here who says, "I fell in love with the campus and simply had to return to my old alma mater." After his Junior College work, Atkins got his B.S. degree at Texas A. & M. in 1942. He will teach economics.

His home town is Cottage Grove and he is a veteran of four years navy duty as a lieutenant commander. Since his recent discharge from the navy he has been employed by Dun & Bradstreet in New York.

Arthur W. Hartung

Arthur W. Hartung, like Kenneth Fry, is a graduate of Kansas State Teachers College, having both a B.A. and an M.S. from that institution.

His teaching experience numbers six years in Kansas public schools, mostly as an instructor of English and history. His latest teaching assignment was with Appalachian Teachers College in Boone, N.C. He is a veteran of 28 months service in the army.

ly that they have what it takes in the football line.

A tentative first string back field made up of Bobby Allen, Glyn Carroll, Charles Read and a character named Webb, who seems to have the necessary primitive viewpoint to make a first string full-back. Allen, so far slated to play No. 1 quarterback played football in the army and the aforementioned Webb was on the last team that U. T. Junior College fielded before the recently concluded unpleasantness with the Japs, Jerries, et al, forced the school to shut down pigskin activities until this fall.

Line Coach James Henson has assembled a pair of beefy lines that should average close to 190 pounds when they get down to playing weight. Bill Yandell and Don King, a pair of rangy ends look like plenty of trouble for UTJ foes this autumn. Backed by Williams and Beatty, they make the terminals look pretty solid.

Dicky Puckett, Arthur Melton, James Shelton and Seldon Parham supply the heft and height at attack while Ralph Byer and Charles Majors tagged first string by Henson, and their second runners, James Collins and Dixon, have the guard positions well in hand.

Top candidates for the rugged job of center in the "T" formation that Coach Hug is brewing are James Wood and Charles Davis with three more guys yearning for the job should they falter.

The number two backfield as cast by Mentor Hug is headed by Joel Pate at quarter, B. F. Cale and Kelly Chambers at the halves and Bob Mabi clinging tenaciously to the fullback slot, which is being eyed longingly by Charles Smith, who, according to Hug, "is going to do us a lot of good."

Newell W. Thompson

Newell W. Thompson, agricultural department instructor, may be better known to the average Martin resident as that very excellent base umpire on duty at most games that the Martin Independents baseball team played out at Harmon field this summer.

He has a B.S. in Animal Husbandry from the University of Tennessee, having spent his first two years at Tennessee Polytechnic at Cookeville. He is a three time winner of the national award for the highest producing herd of Jersey cows, having won the coveted honor for the first time while still in his teens. He later won again at Cookeville and once more while at Knoxville.
